Pretty Mrs. Graham.

That is what I always call her to this day, and in spite of all that's come and gone, it's her true title, for I do believe she was the prettiest creature I ever laid eyes on.

And she was dressed with such exquisite taste, too, it set off her dark bright beauty so well, and she was a dainty, childlike little thing—why, even Dick couldn't help acknowledging her beauty though he didn't take to her from the first.

But I thought him wrong in that, much as I trusted to his judgment, for you see, Dick—well, Dick Fraser and my humble self have been betrothed for several years, and next spring, after Bessie marries, why, I am going to keep house with Dick.

But that isn't my story.

When our dear parents died they left Bessie and me this fine old-fashioned home, a good supply of solid, old-fashioned furniture and silver and household linen, a good old-fashioned servant who had lived with us since Bess was a baby, eighteen years ago, and very little ready money.

So, as we could not give up our home, or be parted, we looked about us for two or three good old-fashioned boarders who would stay with us all the year round and be able to pay well for a good home.

Well, we found two, just what we wanted; Miss Burton, an elderly maiden lady, and Mrs. Wootton, a widow lady, who were glad to escape from the dust and noise of the city, and who were well able to pay good prices for our best rooms.

And this they did, only stipulating that we should not take other boarders, but all have a quiet home together.

So we were just a houseful of women, you see—not a man on the place, unless we except Tom, the half-grown boy who milked the cow and tended the garden and drove our little carriage for us.

We had plenty of applications from summer boarders but we never took any until pretty Mrs. Graham came. It was a melting hot day, when a carriage brought her to my front door, with a lively, black eyed little maid, and she begged so hard to be taken for just a month or two of the hottest weather, saying we looked so cool and delightful out there, and she dreaded the hotel so much, that it was hard to resist her.

Miss Burton was in the parlor when she called, and she was so fascinated by the little widow's loveliness and liveliness that she gave consent to her coming at once.

So then we consulted Mrs. Wootton—you remember our agreement with them made it necessary—and she, too, was quite won over, and so the result was that we made pretty Mrs. Graham an exception, and took her and her lively little maid, Jeannette, into our charmed household.

She took possession that very day, coming down with three large trunks from town. She professed herself delighted with our fine old home and plentiful country fare, and she certainly delighted us with her beauty, and her bewitching ways, and her lovely toilettes, and her wonderful music. For she made the keys of Bessie's piano almost talk and as Bessie herself was the only player among us, and she but an indifferent one, such a musician was a great treat.

Dick came down to take tea on Sunday, as he generally did, and then he met our new boarder.

After supper I asked him if he did not think her lovely.

"Yes, she is pretty—that can't be denied," he said slowly

"Well, what fault can you find?" I said, seeing he kept something back.

"None, perhaps; but I don't like her, and I wish you hadn't taken her, Mary. I believe she is a little adventuress, that's all."

"Why, Dick, her references were unexceptionable, and she is a member of St. John's church, and a teacher in the Sabbath school."

"Is she? Well I hope she is a good one," said Dick dryly, and there the subject dropped.

She had been with us about six weeks, when one Saturday afternoon I received from our business agent eight hundred dollars, the proceed of the interest in a coal mine belonging to Bessie and me.

It was too late to take it to the bank, where our cash was deposited, and I, being half unwilling to keep so much money two nights in a lonely house full of women, felt strongly inclined to go over to the village and deposit it there till Monday morning.

But, on second thought, I made up my mind that was nonsense—the afternoon was warm, I was busy, and the money would be safe enough in my own drawer.

So I counted the notes to be sure they were right, locked them in a little casket, and locked them in my desk. As I opened the door of my room to go down-stairs, I met Jeannette, who said she was just going to knock. Mrs. Graham was going to walk over to the village—could she serve me in any way? I thanked her, said I would be glad if she would call at the post-office, and went my way to see about tea.

The next morning we all went to church except our servant Emma, who remained at home to have the dinner ready.

In the afternoon, Emma wished to go out, and as I did not like the house to remain quite alone, I remained at home myself. Having a slight headache I lay down upon the sofa in the cool parlor and took a quiet nap. I sprang up as soon as I was awakened, and went up stairs to arrange my hair meeting pretty Mrs. Graham coming down.

"I did not know you were at home," said I.

"I have this moment come in and taken off my hat," she said with a sweet smile, "and I was coming down for a drink of ice water."

I heard her go into the parlor, where she sat for a long time playing grand, old church music, and singing softly in tones so sweet that it made me think of heaven and angels' music.

Next morning as we were gathering at the breakfast-table, Miss Burton came in, pale and frightened, saying her room had been entered during the night by a burglar, and her watch and chain and all the valuable jewelry taken.

We all sprang up in consternation, and went to her room, where we found the window which opened upon the roof of a veranda partly raised and the shutters pushed open as if surely indicating the way the burglar had entered.

Miss Burton had slept soundly and heard nothing she said, but had noticed her window when she first woke, and upon searching, found all her jewels gone.

"We might all have been murdered in our beds!" cried Mrs. Wootton, pale and trembling, while pretty Mrs. Graham fell to crying like a child, declaring she would not dare to stay another night under a roof where there was no man in the house.

"Did any of the rest lose anything?" asked Bessie.

"I haven't noticed in my room," said Mrs. Wooton; "let us all go and look."

And to our rooms we went, I opening my bureau with a sinking heart. It was as I feared—my casket, which had only contained the money, was really gone!

Some unaccountable impulse prompted me to conceal my loss from the rest when I joined them again, and I hardly noticed that Mrs. Graham stopped crying and looked queerly at me when I reported that my things were all right.

And then she fell to crying again, saying hers were all right, too, but she never doubted that it would be her turn next, and she dared not stay there another night.

Mrs. Wootton reported that every article of jewelry and all the money she had in her purse were gone, and Bessie said the same.

This was a serious case, and we were at a loss what to do. I said I should inform the village inspector and then go up to town and consult Mr. Fraser and a lawyer, and I begged them to do nothing till I came back.

They all promised, but pretty Mrs. Graham said I must come back before night, for she knew she was a dreadful little coward, but she must go over to the village and stay at the hotel for a few nights. She would only take Jeannette and a little satchel, and when we got all quiet once again she would come back.

I was not willing she should go, but I thought she would get over her fright by evening and stay, so I only asked her if I could do any errands in the city for her.

She said no—then yes, if I would be so kind I might stop at Welling's and match a piece of lace for her—she wanted five yards more and she gave me the money to pay for it.

It seemed to me that trains went at snails' paces that morning, but at last I was in Dick's office.

"Um—um—yes, to be sure!" said Dick, stroking his mustache with a thoughtful air. "Very bad, Mary! Very bad indeed! And your pretty little widow is the only one person who wants to leave you say?"

"Yes. And I don't want any one to leave with such a stain on our house, Dick."

"You must by all means keep your pretty little widow till I come down with an officer and search her trunks."

I sprang to my feet.

"Why, Dick are you mad?" I cried.

"Neither mad nor deluded my dear little woman," said Dick, coolly. "But I have a little theory about this thing, Mary, and if you will let me work it out I may help you. Got errands to do this morning?"

I was too worried to attend to any shopping for myself, but I remembered Mrs. Graham's lace and answered—

"Yes one."

"Well, go and do it, and then come back here, will you? I think I'll have a plan perfected by that time."

I went to Welling's stopped at the last counter, and held out the scrap pretty Mrs. Graham had given me.

"Can you match this?" I asked of the polite shopman who stepped up. "I wish to purchase some more of it."

He took the bit of lace, and I noticed a queer look come over his face. I also saw two or three of the young men draw near and eye me curiously, and I began to feel embarrassed.

"I don't know," said the shopman, slowly. "Mr. Jones, ask Mr. Welling to step this way."

The young man addressed hurried away, and in a moment the gentleman named came up, which was a relief to me, for I saw something was wrong, and I knew him well, as he was an old friend of my father's.

"This is a bad business, and requires explanation, Miss Mary," he said. "A week ago a lady exactly answering the description you give of Mrs. Graham, came here and bought twenty yards of this same lace. After she was gone it was discovered that the money she paid was bad. We have been trying to trace this lady ever since, but had not the least clew till now. What do you think?"

"I think," I tremblingly said, "that I must tell you the bad business at our house last night, which brought me to town to-day."

So I told him my story, and then he went with me to Dick's office. And when I went home I knew all I had to do.

I told Mrs. Graham that I could not find her any more of the lace, and returned her money.

As I had planned, Dick came by the six o'clock train, and we were all at tea when Emma came in with the quiet announcement—

"Mr. Fraser is in the parlor, ma'am."

I excused myself a moment, and hastening to the parlor found Dick and a detective.

We hurried quietly up-stairs—I was so glad Jeannette was out of the way—and into pretty Mrs. Graham's room. One of her trunks was gone, but her hat and shawl lay upon the bed, and under the pillow we found her Russian leather hand-bag.

Mr. Detective made short work of opening that bag, and lo! he had no need to look farther! There we found all Miss Burton's jewelry, all that belonged to Bessie and Mrs. Wootton, and my lost money, besides a bunch of skeleton keys. And then his course was plain, and before I hardly knew what had happened, we had astonished the group at the supper-table, and pretty Mrs. Graham was a prisoner.

Afterward we found proof enough that her work was done on Sunday afternoon, while I lay asleep in the parlor, and the window opened at night by her lively maid Jeanette, to throw suspicion aside.

But we never heard any more either of pretty Mrs. Graham or Jeannette.

Both, no doubt, got their deserts, for Mr. Welling prosecuted, though I refused to do so.

Stole the Corner Stone.

Passing through New Brunswick, a few days ago on the Pennsylvania railroad, a member of the assembly, gazing off to a red clay bluff high over the canal along the river bank, a mile or so from the town, remarked: "Do you see that big building, the Rutger theological seminary, up there back of the town? Well, the corner stone of that building is in the canal just under that high bluff—at least it was the last time I knew anything about it. It was back in 1856 or 1857 and I was a graceless young scamp, at Rutgers college. There was lots of us g. y. s.'s in Rutgers that year. The Theological seminary building foundations were just finished, and they had made grand preparations for laying the corner stone, with no end of speeches by big guns from everywhere. The night before a lot of us got an old pair of wheels, went up there in the dark, mounted the corner stone on the wheels and dragged it across the country to the bluff, where we dumped it over into the canal and went back to bed. There was a ruction next morning, but it was of no use; they had to go on with their corner stone laying without any corner stone. They never found out what had become of it, and the fun of it was they all laid it to "those rascally town boys."

He Had Seen Mermaids.

'About mermaids,' said the captain, as he stood upon the unfinished end of the seawall and surveyed the landlubber reporter of the San Francisco Call with an expression of pitiful condescension. 'Why, I've see'd the most wonderful things in that line. Well, we were over in the China sea. One night, just after we'd past the Formosa group, I was aroused out of my bunk by the mate, who sings out 'Mermaids aboard!' Out I jumps and gets on deck in a turn of a helm. You can splice my mains' if there wasn't 'bout twenty of the biggest mermaids a floppin' around the deck I ever seed. Two of 'em had got the fellows on watch cornered and was a kissen' 'em.

'The mate had took to the riggin' after hailing me. I was a little s'prised, though I had seen mermaids afore, but never more'n one at a time. 'Ladies,' said I, 'make yourselves at home,' and you bet your hawsers they did. They quit floppin,' and all got on the rail, side by side, a holdin' their tails in their hands and commenced to sing, and I jest tell you they whooped things up. They skipped through the 'Sweet By and By' and took several reefs in the 'Red, White and Blue' and slewed to port on a 'Life on the Ocean Wave' in beautiful style.'

'Didn't see them again, did you?' asked a landlubber.

Well, yes. The next day we was becalmed. There wasn't a smell of a breeze, and whistlin' for it didn't do any good. I was madder'n a stuck whale, for I wanted to make a quick passage. Suddenly I sees a commotion in the water, and, shiver my binnacle lights, if them mermaids warn't swimmin' around us. One of 'em boarded us as slick as could be and ses, 'Give us a rope.' Well, I throwed 'em one, and I'll lay to on a lee shore if they didn't tow us till we struck a breeze. Got the rope right in their mouths—about fifty of 'em—and pulled us along. I was so 'bleeged to 'em that I threw 'em a mass of looking-glasses, clocks and shoe blacking out of the cargo.

'Next day we struck another calm and I 'spected the mermaids would pull us out again. They were all around a donnin' their mornin' uniform in the glasses. Hey!' says I, 'tow us along, will you?' Well, no sooner had I hailed 'em than every one of 'em looked at the clocks which they had slung around their necks. 'Scuse us, cap,' they said, 'we see it's just time to keep our appointment at the bottom,' and cuss me if they didn't all disappear.'

The Biter Bit.

Gilhooly was in a somewhat intoxicated condition. He came out of the bar room at a late hour. He had sufficient intelligence, however, to know what his condition was, so he concluded to take a hack. As soon as he was inside of the hack and was being driven towards his home it occurred to him that he had only five dollars in the world, and that the sum had to last him until the end of the month, therefore, he could not afford to pay hack hire. Slyly opening the door of the hack he jumped out without the coachman having observed him. He wandered about on foot for half an hour until he found that he had lost his way. He was then compelled to hire a second hack. As he had succeeded so well in swindling the first hack driver, he concluded to try the same trick over again. It succeeded, but unfortunately in jumping from the hack he landed in a pile of fresh mortar, out of which he had much difficulty in extricating himself. After wandering around for several hours in the rain he at last found his way home. On the floor he saw his fine black suit utterly rained by the lime and water. He seized his pants and got out his pocketbook. He counted his money, and discovered that precisely two fares were missing.

'Now I understand how it happened,' he exclaimed, 'I paid these two hack drivers their money when I first got into their hacks, but I was too drunk to remember. So in swindling two fares out of the hack driyers I have swindled myself out of that amount, and walked home besides. The ruined clothes are worth at least forty dollars.'

An American Fireside.

An American woman is lecturing in England on marriage, domestic habits and kindred subjects. Her idea of fireside bliss is illustrated by an ideal picture of a cozy room with pretty children and a cat and a dog playing about. Enter to these the husband, tired but happy. He throws himself into an easy chair, in attitude of careless repose, which he completes by placing his feet in his wife's lap. With their usual guilelessness and faith in what they are told concerning American affairs, the English who unfortunately hear this lecture will henceforth stubbornly believe that all American husbands are in the habit of resting themselves with their feet in their wives' laps.

Sugar by Electricity.

An entirely new process for refining sugar, electricity being the agent employed, is one of the latest discoveries.

If the half that is claimed for it be true, it is also one of the most important that has been made in the last half of this century. The process is said to be a dry one throughout, dispeosing altogether with boiling and the use of boneblack. It is claimed that no syrup whatever is produced, the whole product being hard sugar of nearly, if not quite, absolutely purity—namely, 100 per cent. cane sugar, per analysis. This result has been obtained from the lowest grades, the parcels treated ranging all the way from ten pounds to over a ton in weight. The refined sugar is obtained within four hours from the time the machinery is set in motion, and the process is continuous, the output of fine sugar being kept up so long as the raw material is fed in and the machinery kept in motion. The cost of the process is almost ridiculously low, being set at not more than eighty cts. per ton, with a guarantee that the loss will not be greater than about one-half of one per cent. The cost of the requisite machinery, including power and aparatus needed to put the sugar into barrels and the buildings required to inclose the works, is estimated to be about $100,000; in England, for an output of four thousand barrels every twenty-four hours.

Paid by the Private.

The Baltimore Sun revives the following story of Elias Howe, the inventor of sewing machines:

At the outbreak of the war, when he was a millionaire he enlisted as a private to show his patriotism and independence. Money grew scarce, and his regiment, which was sent South, was left unpaid for three months. At the end of that time Howe, in his private's uniform, one day entered the office of the quartermaster and asked when the soldiers of the regiment were to be paid.

'I don't know,' replied the quartermaster.

'Well, how much is owed them?' blandly asked the private.

'What is that to you?' said the storekeeper, with a look of surprise.

'Oh, nothing,' said Howe, nonchalantly; 'if you'll figure out the amount I'll give you my check for the whole business.'

'Who are you?' gasped the quartermaster.

'Elias Howe, and my check is good for the pay of the entire army.'

The quartermaster made out his bills and Howe gave him the check for three months' pay for his regiment. The government afterward reimbursed him.

The Politest of Military Clerks.

"When Grant was in Chicago, three or four years ago," said an army official, "he lounged about Sheridan's headquarters a good deal. His son Fred was at that time on Sheridan's staff, but was absent one day, and Grant took his place at Fred's desk and looked after the business. A nervous, fidgety, irritable old fellow came in to inquire for some paper that he had left with Fred. When he stated his case Grant took up the matter in a sympathetic way, and proceeded after the manner of an over-anxious clerk to look the paper up. The document could not be found, and Grant, apologizing, walked with the old gentleman to the door. As I walked down the stairs with the mollified visitor he turned and asked: 'Who is that old codger? He is the politest clerk I ever saw at military headquarters. I hope Sheridan will keep him.' I answered quietly, 'That is Gen. Grant.' The fidgety old gentleman, after staring at me for a full minute, said, with considerable fervor, 'I will give you 50 cents if you will kick me down stairs.'"

His Love was Chilled.

'Love you!' echoed the young man; why, I'd walk through fire to sit by your side for ten minutes!'

'That's awfully nice. I wish pa loved ma that way.'

'Doesn't he?'

'Oh, no. She asked him at dinner for a $300 camel's-hair shawl, and he made her cry.'

'How?'

'Why, he said that, with wheat touching a dollar, and he a half million bushels short on a delivery at eighty-seven cents, she'd better be thinking of calico at six cents a yard. Why, what ails you, Augustus?'

'I—I—that is, I've got to meet a man at sharp 3. Half a million bushels short, eh? Good-day, Miss Fairbanks.'

And he went off kicking himself for not being in love with an ice dealer's daughter.

A STRUGGLE WITH A COW.

Unexpected Result of Sam's Twisting the Calf's Tail.

The Cow Resents the Act with Disastrous Consequences to Her Drivers.

There is nothing that demands statesmanship of a high order as much as the driving of a cow with a young calf to any particular place. Two Dallas colored men took a job of this character yesterday, and although they gave the matter their careful attention, the result was very far from satisfactory to anybody but the cow, who seemed to enjoy it very much. Sam and Bill were to get a dollar to take the cow and calf and put them in the yard of the owner, Mr. Thomas Carlyle, who lives at the south end of Elm street. After trying in vain to get the cow to understand in which direction they preferred she should go, Sam and Bill called a cabinet meeting, at which the following campaign plan was agreed upon: Sam was to take up the calf in his arms and go ahead, while Bill was to hold the cow back by the rope which was fastened to her horns.

'Ef she goes too fast,' said Bill, 'I'll jest hold her back.'

'And ef she don't follow fast enough, I'll jest twist de calf's tail, and den she will come right along,' said Sam.

Sam took up the calf and went ahead, while Bill, in order to get a real good hold, tied the rope around his wrist. The procession proceeded slowly in the desired direction, and would have reached its destination in safety had not Satan tempted Bill to get off a joke on Sam, so he called out:

'Sam, jest twist dat calf's tail.'

Sam did so, and the calf bleated as if it was opposed to an encore to the performance.

The old cow began to trot. So did Sam, holding on to the calf as if he had stolen it. Then the fun began. For every once in a while the cow would polish her horns in the ceiling of Sam's pants. Bill could not get his hands out of the rope, and, as he had short legs, he had hard work keeping up with the procession, or rather in not letting go. He ran so fast that the kinks in his wool straightened out. Finally he gasped:

'Sam, ontwist dat calf's tail.'

Sam's legs moved so rapidly that they looked like spokes of a buggy, but he called back:

'Look out dar, don't let go dat rope, de cow's a gainin' on me.'

'Drap de calf, Sam,' called poor Bill, whose arm was coming out of its socket. 'Drap de calf, for I can't keep up wid de cow. Go slow, or I'll turn de cow loose on you,' which, however, was more than he was able to do.

Bill made the next fifty yards on his back, he still most unwillingly retained his hold on the rope. Fortunately, the cow overtook Sam, and in return for his kindness in picking up the calf, she picked him up on her horns and threw him over into Mr. Carlyle's yard. Bill, who was rather tired of chasing the cow, thought he would climb over and see what Sam was doing. She appeared to understand his wishes in that direction, so she started on a run to help him out, or rather in. She was a little late, but he went about ten feet further into the field than he would have done without her assistance. There was neither of them so badly hurt as they were when old Carlyle came and told them that the contract was that they should put the cow in the yard. Instead of that, the cow had put them in the yard, so the dollar belonged to himself as the owner of the cow.

It is thought a lawsuit will grow out of the matter.

A Man of Honor.

Colonel Griggleson, by the unhesitating manner by which he has purchased goods on credit, and by the hesitating manner in which he has paid for them, fails to occupy a place among the fortunate class of men known as "good customers."

The other day, just after the colonel had ordered several articles to be sent up to his house, the merchant of whom he had just ordered the articles, said:

'Colonel, I would like the best in the world to favor you, but I really can't carry you any longer.'

'By the way, that reminds me of a joke I heard in Washington last—'

'Never mind about Washington. I can't afford to let you have the goods. You owe me a hundred and fifty dollars already.'

'My dear friend,' said the colonel, lighting a cigar, 'do you suppose I can, in justice to my honor, afford to pay a man who refuses to trust me? I may be peculiar, but I can't help it. My father was very much the same way. Don't remember the old gentleman, do you? You would have liked him. Wish you would send these things up as soon as you can. Good morning!'—Arkansaw Traveler.

THE Republican state convention will assemble at Harrisburg on the 8th of July.

THE house on Tuesday reconsidered its adverse vote on the bill to establish an agricultural experiment station at the State College and passed it finally by a vote of 117 to 42. It now goes to the Governor.

GENERAL GRANT suffered with rheumatic pains in his body and especially in his throat on Sunday night. The pains are accredited to the unfavorable weather conditions attending Sunday night's storm.

THE Supreme Court has lately passed a decision again, making it unlawful to sell lite insurance policies. The law forbids any transaction or speculation, which may be based upon the length of a human life.

LATE DISPATCHES from London bring the news of the defeat of Gladstone's ministry in the English House of Commons on Monday evening, on the second reading of the budget and say that in consequence Mr. Gladstone and his cabinet are expected to resign.

TO-MORROW, June 12th, the present session of the legislature will adjourn. It is stated that Governor Pattison intends calling an extra session, immediately after the close of the regular session. The Governor seems to have very decided views on anti-discrimination and wants them discussed at a special session.

THE Grangers' Twelfth Annual Inter-State Picnic-Exhibition for 1895, will be held at William's Grove, Cumberland Co., Penna., from August 31st to Sept. 5th, 1885. This gathering of Agriculturists, Horticulturists, Stockmen and Manufacturers of farming implements was a grand success last year and the attendance then was estimated at 100,000. All the exhibitors of 1884 have engaged space for this year's exhibition and the success promises to become even greater than last year.

REDUCING the expenses of the governments of this country is a work which seems to be carried on with a will under the new administration and the promises made by President Cleveland in his platform regarding this part of reform are thereby nobly redeemed. The accumulation of unnecessary clerks and officials for the sake of hungry politicians has come to an end and in all departments a general cleaning out of superfluous people in service is going on, the force being reduced to a number which will suffice to do the public work satisfactory.

To Reorganize the Pension Service.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—There will be a complete reorganization of the pension system under the new Commissioner. It will affect Pennsylvania first in a rearrangement of Pension Surgeons. An entirely new list of Pension Surgeons is thought necessary. A complete list is being made out, under the superintendence of Governor Curtin, Mr. Sowden, Mr. Randall and the other Democratic members of Congress from the State. A call was made by these gentlemen upon Commissioner Black to-day in regard to the matter. At the same time a strong letter was presented indorsing General Davis for the Philadelphia Pension agency.

THE Harrisburg Patriot gets off a strong comparison in the following editorial:

That the mental faculties of the Blaine faction were impaired by the drubbing they got last fall is indicated by an apparent design on their part to defend the re-election of Senator Edmunds of Vermont. They might as well attempt to prevent the sap of the Green Mountain sugar maples from ascending in the spring time as to turn the favor of the Vermont Republicans from their old Senatorial standby, who they are smart enough to know is an abler man and a more honest politician than Blaine.

Miscellaneous News.

The capstone of the Washington monument was struck by lightning on Saturday, and shattered.

In Sunday's thunderstorm Mr. Benj. Buck and his grandson, both of Harrisburg, were out riding, when the lightning struck the horse, instantly killing the animal. Mr. Buck was struck on the knee and his grandson received a slight shock in the back. Both gentlemen miraculously escaped with their lives and were able to walk to the city, a distance of about four miles.

At the Norristown Insane Asylum a brass band, the members of which are all deranged inmates of the institution, has been practicing since September last. On Friday they paraded for the first time, and in new uniforms. They marched around a fifty-yard circle for three quarters of an hour, changing from one tune to another, and only stopped when out of breath. This is the only band in an asylum in the country. The physicians say the exercise is very beneficial to the performers.

Abe Buzzard, the Welsh Mountain Thief gives Himself up and Hopes for Pardon.

LANCASTER, June 4.—Abe Buzzard, the Welsh Mountain outlaw, who has completely outwitted the large number of officers and detectives who have constantly been upon his track since the $1,000 reward was offered by the county, gave himself up at the County Prison last night. Shortly before 12 o'clock Keeper Burkholder was awakened by Mart and John Buzzard, brothers of Abe, who stated that they had come to deliver up the fugitive. They had left him at the edge of town, however, for fear that the coast was not clear and they might be pounced upon by officers hungry for the big reward. They said they desired no reward, but Abe would surrender himself willingly in case he was not molested. The keeper then agreed to sign a certificate setting forth that he would ask for no reward and John and Mart did likewise. In a few minutes Abe was brought to the prison by his two brothers and he is now confined in cell 57.

When it became known this morning that the notorious criminal had been again locked up the excitement was very great in this city. Large crowds visited the prison, with hopes of getting a look at the long-lost Abe, but few were admitted. Abe talked freely to a number of reporters. He said that since his escape in October, 1883, he had spent most of his time on the mountain, having been out of the State but two weeks. He expresses himself willing to remain in prison for four years on one crime of which he is guilty, but would rather die than stay the other nine for offenses of which he is innocent. He declares if he is released from prison at the end of his four years' sentence he will aid the county in sending to jail a number of men who have been robbing under his name.

His greatest hope now is that he will be pardoned of the nine years' sentence. A number of influential citizens in this neighborhood, who believe that he has been badly treated and is innocent of the greatest crime of which he was convicted, have interested themselves in his behalf and will assist in procuring him a pardon. The promises of these people were one of the inducements that led Abe to surrender. He claims to know the men who robbed and shot Edward Linville and says that he can prove the existence of an organized band of thieves, composed largely of men who have been heretofore considered respectable.

Convinced.

Mr. U. G. King, foreman of the Leetonia Democrat, Leetonia, Ohio, writes: "DR. S. B. HARTMAN, Columbus, Ohio, Gentlemen: Some time since, I had occasion to doubt the genuineness of most of the articles that appear in different papers in regard to your wonderful PERUNA, and my curiosity was so great that I determined to write to one of the many people that claimed to have been cured by this medicine, and accordingly wrote to Mrs. J. W. Reynolds, of New Lisbon, this county, and received the following reply." "I received your letter this evening, and in reply would say that PERUNA, I believe, saved my life, and I can not recommend it too highly; for all complaints it is the best medicine in existence. It seems to help you as you swallow it. I would advise any one suffering from my complaint to take PERUNA and be convinced. Yours truly, Mrs. J. W. Reynolds." Now, that's her card, word for word, and as I am well acquainted with the lady, I do not believe she would lie. It is truly wonderful how your medicine does do good.

James L. Mooney, Prospect, Ohio, writes: "For the past ten years I have been suffering from constipation and dyspepsia, and all the evil effects that accompany them. I was treated by a number of doctors, all to no effect. I used several patent medicines, which did me no good, and about three years ago I was seized with a severe nervous trouble, and was obliged to quit farming. I thought my days would soon be over, but last winter I received one of your pamphlets called the "Ills of Life." I at once tried your PERUNA and MANALIN. They helped me right away. I used nine bottles of PERUNA and three of MANALIN; and now I am quite well, and able to resume farming. I also had a little child which was attacked with a severe cramp in the stomach; we thought it would go into spasms. I used nothing but PERUNA. We gave it an injection of PERUNA and warm water, and gave it a teaspoonful of the medicine internally every half hour. It was relieved in one hour, and has not been bothered since. I have also used it with as good effect in case of croup and colds. I know that it is a wonderful medicine, and recommend it to all who are in poor health. The above statement I am willing to swear to."

W. M. Plants, Deep Valley, Greene county, Pa., writes: "Please send me your book on the 'Ills of Life.' I have used one bottle of PERUNA, and am greatly benefited."

—Druggists as a rule are extremely jealous and careful of the honor of their profession, and are loth to praise a medicine which they do not from personal knowledge know to be a meritorious article. They all agree, however, that for smallness of dose, easiness to take, and effectiveness as a worm destroyer, McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders are the best and most desirable vermifuge in their stock, and do not hesitate to recommend them. Damaged by Storm.

The Destruction in Atchison, Kansas—A Terrible Canyon Torrent.

ATCHISON, June 4.—A terrible storm of wind and rain swept over this city yesterday, destroying public and private property to the extent of about $60,000. All the creeks overflowed their banks, and culverts, bridges and crossings were all swept away or seriously damaged. The gutters and sewers could not carry off the water and the streets on the lower limits became rivers. Cellars were flooded, mills stopped and business generally interrupted. The Mayor and City Engineer, after a careful inspection of public property, say the damages will reach $50,000 on city works alone, while almost eve y business man complains of more of less damage by water. The rain came down in a perfect deluge and the thunder and lightning were worse than ever known before in this vicinity.

LONGMONT, Col., June 4—At noon yesterday the Beaver Park reservoir, in South St. Vrain canyon, burst, causing great damage to the surrounding country. The torrent, which is estimated to have reached a height of 120 feet, rushed down the canyon with terrific force, carrying away bridges, houses, barns and everything which obstructed its path, and flooded the adjacent country. So far as learned no lives were lost. The damage to crops and meadows along the lowlands are very great. The reservoir, an immense affair, covering an area of many acres, supplied water for the highland ditch, which traverses a large section of land adjacent to the mountains.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., 10 Dexter St.

DR. J. A. SHERMAN—Dear Friend: I am sorry, Doctor, you have left Boston. Persons continue to come to my house to inquire respecting you, while many others write me. Many who left me said they would surely seek your aid. Your success has been wonderful, and I am quite sure without a parallel. To my surprise my large Hernia appears to be perfectly healed. I did not expect it at the age of 79. After receiving your treatment I was relieved from suffering which was fast taking my life. I have no idea I should be living had you not taken my case in hand. I weigh now 170 pounds, over thirty pounds more than then. I think you must receive a great amount of happiness from the relief given and gratitude rendered.

You owe it to my son in Boston, who has known many of your patients before and after healing, that I applied to you. "Go," said he, "to Dr. Sherman; he is doing wonders." I had failed of help from a dozen others and doubted, but he would not let me rest till I went. I bless the day I did so. It is to me a mystery, Doctor, that you have so wonderfully out-distanced all in your profession.

I hope your life will long be spared to relieve sufferers, and thus bless the world. Most affectionately and gratefully yours,
REV. JOHN ALDEN.

The Rev. John Alden's case was quite as bad as Mr. James Corlew's, in Dr. Sherman's illustrated book. Those who value immunity from strangulated rupture, the injury trusses inflict, and the comforts of physical soundness should lose no time in securing the benefits of Dr. Sherman's treatment and remedies. His book, containing likenesses of bad cases before and after cure, with evidence of his success and indorsements from distinguished physicians, clergymen, merchants, farmers, engineers and others, is expressed to those who send 10 cents. Dr. Sherman can be consulted daily at his office, 251 Broadway, New York, except Thursdays and Fridays, when he will be in Philadelphia office, 302 Walnut Street. Dyspepsia.

GENTS:—I feel it my duty to say respecting Burdock Blood Bitters, that it is the best medicine I ever took. I suffered two or three years from stomach troubles and dyspepsia as well as from liver and kidney complaint. I was not able to attend to my business. My wife was afflicted in much the same way. We read of your Bitters in the papers and made up our minds that we would try them. The result is my wife and I began to improve at once, and I am now able to do more hard work than before in ten years. It relieved my kidney troubles as well. We both wish you, the makers of it, Godspeed.

20-3m Spring Mills, Pa.

—Mrs. Dr. Moyer, of Logansville, we regret to learn, had a severe stroke of palsey last week, which renders her almost helpless. Mrs. Joseph Kleckner of Coburn, one of her daughters and Mrs. J. D. Lose, of this place, a granddaughter, were over to visit their aged and afflicted relative.

—It is reported that certain persons make themselves busier around other people's premises in the hours of night than is just advisable. The fox may steal chickens nine times and the tenth time he may be caught in the trap. And so somebody will walk off with a bee in his ear one of these nights.

—A valuable cow belonging to Mr. Geo. Rhymestine, of the toll gate on the Millheim-Coburn turn pike, was killed by the cars on Friday forenoon just below Coburn station. Had the engineer not succeeded in stopping the train when he did, six more cows lingering on the track would have been killed.

—The rooms occupied by Mr. E. J. Swaverly and family on Bishop street, Bellefonte, were greatly damaged by lightning on Sunday night. Mr Swavely was looking out of his window during the storm and the electric bolt played around his body for some time, and after tearing all his nightclothes, but leaving him uninjured, pursued its way down to Bauer's and Spangler's stores in the same building. The occupants were badly scareed.

—Mr. Laird, of Bellefonte, the champion roller skater of Centre, Clinton and Clearfield counties, tarried in town on Monday evening, and delighted our skaters with a few samples of his wonderful tricks on rollers, in Mussers' rink.

—Our young friend, Cameron Rote left us yesterday afternoon for Pottsville, Pa., where he has a permanent job with his brother-in-law at stone cutting, which he expects to make his trade. We wish him all the possible luck and success.

—The exterior of the First National Hotel is undergoing a change in the shape of a new and large portico along its entire front. Workmen began operations on Tuesday morning and from all appearances it will be a decided change for the better.

—The nickle plated speaking trumpet, donated to the Millheim Hook & Ladder Company by the Gleason & Baily Manufacturing Co., arrived yesterday noon. The instrument is a handsome piece of work and the boys are naturally proud of the present.

—Prof. J. H. Kurzenknabe, of Harrisburg, came to town on Tuesday evening, and is spending a short time with his son and other friends. The gentleman is as spry and wide-awake as ever and reports that his music store in the capital is in a flourishing condition.

—S. D. Musser started the carpenters on Tuesday morning on the job of repairing and renovating his residence on Main street. He expects to build an addition to the house, enlarge his stable and change most of his outbuildings —in short improve his property in first-class style.

—The ladies of the Mite Society of the Reformed church at Aaronsburg expect to hold an Ice Cream Festival in the audience room of their unfinished church on Saturday, June 27th, afternoon and evening, to which they cordially invite the public. A good, social time is promised.

—Mr. Charles Ripka, residing in the "mountains," Gregg township, died on Sunday, June 7th. Deceased was the father of Mrs. J. H. Maize, of this place, and was an old and much respected citizen. His funeral took place on Tuesday forenoon, when the remains were interred in the mountain cemetery.

—The front of the Journal Store has been adorned with new boardwalks and the job is altogether in keeping with B. O. Deininger's renowned exactness and love of order. If the bloated bondholders vis-a-vis make as pretty a job of their prospective crossing, which seems to be "so near and yet so far" then there will be peace and happiness forever in this deesdrick.

—We are under obligations to Pres. Pierce, of Pierce's Business College, Philadelphia, for an artistic card of invitation and two tickets to the commencement exercises of that institution to be held in the Academy of Music, on the 18th inst.

Also to A. D. Deininger, son of Rev. C. F. Deininger, of this place, for a similar invitation to the commencement of the New Berlin Seminary on the 12th of June, on which occasion that young gentleman expects to graduate. Pressure of work prevents us however to make use of either of these invitations, much as we would like to attend.

—According to the Daily News Bellefonte will have no Fourth of July celebration this year, but will have an excursion to Lewisburg over the new railroad on that day. The Logan Hose Company of the Mountain City will attend the great firemen's parade at Lewisburg and expect to ride over the new road. All that is necessary is a free expression of sentiment of Bellefonte's citizens to make such an excursion a surety and the Daily News imagines that about a thousand excursionists might start from Bellefonte while others will be picked up all along the road.

We say let it come—and we are sure that the "others along the road" will not only be a handful. At least Millheim will be comparatively quiet on that day and many of our people think of attending the Lewisburg anniversary.

SUNDAY'S STORM IN CENTRE COUNTY.—All afternoon of said day black and threatening clouds rolled up on the horizon and in the evening the most vivid flashes of lightning shot from the dark vapors at short interyals and an almost continual rumbling of thunder told observing people that the air was filled with electricity and furious storms. However the heavier parts of the elements passed around this town and seemed particularly to hang over Sugar, Nittany and Bald Eagle valleys.

Reports from those valleys go to show that the storm raged with terrific fury in those sections the greater part of Sunday night, being accompanied by hail and rain. One informant says the hail storm in Sugar Valley as severer than ever before known by the oldest inhabitants. The grain and fruit was very much damaged there. Bald Eagle was visited with particular force. In the latter part of the afternoon a hailstorm occurred, the hailstones falling as large as walnuts. Much damage was done and there is hardly a house in that town where window lights were not broken. At midnight a heavy wind storm at Eagleville unroofed the Christian church and raised one of Mr. Bumgardner's houses and blew it from its foundations, while another of his houses was unroofed. The house occupied by Mr. Krotzer and family was also unroofed and Mrs. Krotzer in attempting to protect one of her children from a falling timber, was struck and hurt. It was a terrible night and but few people in Centre county enjoyed a solid night's sleep.

—Rev. M. L. Dietzler and wife, Aaronsburg, returned from Synod at Harrisburg last Friday evening. The reverend gentleman seems highly pleased and satisfied with the grand success of that Lutheran assemblage.

—J. Q. Stewart, Chairman of the Executive Committee, announces that The Thirty-first annual meeting of the Pennsylvania State Teachers' Association will be held in the Opera House, at Harrisburg, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, July 7th, 8th and 9th.

The programme has been carefully prepared by the Executive Committee, and all arrangements for a successful meeting have been completed.

Orders for excursion tickets on the several railroads can be procured by addressing J. F. Sickel, Germantown, Pa., not later than July 3d.

Hotels and boarding houses will make the usual reduction in rates to members of the Association.

An excursion to Gettysburg has been arranged for Friday, July 10th. Fare for the round trip will not exceed one dollar and twenty-five cents.

An excursion has also been arranged to Fortress Monroe, Richmond and Washington, returning to Harrisburg within ten days. The excursion party will go from Baltimore to Fortress Monroe 118 miles, by steamer. The round trip ticket will cost nine dollars.

THE "BUZZ SAW" NEWSPAPER.—The May number of Lum Smith's Philadelphia HERALD literally sparkles with dynamical and electrical exposures of pernicious newspapers, frauds, quacks and humbugs that infest our land to the detriment of legitimate journalism and business and the morals of our boys and girls. Editor Smith prefers serious charges against Gov. Bunn, of Idaho, and calls on President Cleveland for Bunn's removal. Anthony Comstock, Secretary of the N. Y. S. for the S. of V., is again offered $1800 to explain his connection with W. L. Allen, a nortorious fraud and legally indicted blackmailer. The Texas press and officials are appealed to to drive Byron H Van Raub, of Leon Springs, Texas, from that State. It appears that Van Raub is trying to establish a harem. "Dr." W. H. Hale, publisher of "Health and Home," Washington, D. C., is again fully exposed. Algernon H. Wilcox, Tom Chichester and "Dr." Fry, all of Philadelphia are given "Thirty Days Notice" to discontinue their demoralizing "Pennyroyal and Tansy Pill" business. Smith declares if they do not heed his warning he will arrest and prosecute them himself. The Louisiana Lottery Co. is again exposed. The stories, poetry, and puzzle department of THE HERALD are excellent. Smith scored his forty sixth victory on the 21st of May, before Judge Arnold, the jury awarding Smith $25,000 damages.

A meeting of the city fathers was held on Saturday evening, with the view of ascertaining public opinion on the subject of a reservoir. The majority, as usual, gave a verdict against needed improvements.

A certain man of our town, who is either extremely well informed, or terribly confused in his ignorance, makes the astounding declaration that, "were it not for fire engines there would be no fires." AFTER DINNER.

Persons who suffer from Indigestion can arrest the progress of that painful malady by the use of an after-dinner pill, so composed that it will give tone to the stomach, prevent heartburn, rouse the liver to healthful action, invigorate the kidneys, and thus, through the activity of these organs, promote the natural movement of the stomach and bowels. AYER'S PILLS are so compounded that their action, though mild, effectually produces the above results. They also, in curing Constipation, remove the cause of Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Kidney Disease, Rheumatism, and many other serious ailments.

contain no mineral nor poisonous substance, and do not gripe unless the bowels are irritated, and even then their influence is healing. To continue their effect in constipated or chronic cases, they need only be taken in diminishing instead of increasing doses. For seamen, and inhabitants or travelers in sparsely settled countries where physicians are not at hand, they are of inestimable value. There is hardly a sickness they will not alleviate, and in most cases cure, if taken promptly. To young girls just entering upon womanhood, and to women whose period of maternity is drawing to a close, Ayer's Pills, in moderate doses, merely sufficient to ensure regular action of the bowels, will be found of Incalculable Value.

How He Won Her.

A young editor, bright, poor and punsterous, had won the affections of a rich man's daughter, and they fixed a day for him to call on the father, and on that day he was promptly in the old gentleman's office.

'Good morning, sir,' he said, confidently, but ready to run, 'I have called on a matter of—'

'We don't want any advertising today,' interrupted the old gentleman, looking up over his glasses.

'I'm not on that business, sir. I came to ask you for your daughter.'

'What do you want with her ?'

'Marry her.'

'For better or worse.'

'What does the girl say ?'

'She says she will be my wife.'

'Ugh ! You haven't got a cent in the world, have you ?'

'Yes, sir. She gave assent, and if you do the same, that will make two, and we can buy a postage stamp and write to you for the balance of our salary.

It was a wretched attempt, but he got the girl.—Merchant Traveller.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth ? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

A Healthy Profession.

'Journalism must be a healthy profession,' said old Mrs. Squaggs as she had the paper on her knee and rubbed her eyeglasses with her apron.

'What makes you think so ?' said old Mr. Squaggs.

'Because I see the writers who used to have pieces in the papers when I was a girl are still living and writing away the same as ever ; they must be very old.'

'Who are they ?' asked Mr. Squaggs.

'Well, there is 'Veritas' for one, and 'Anon' and One who Knows,'and 'Vox Populi,' and 'Justice,' and 'Pro Bono Publico,' and 'X Y Z,' and 'Taxpayer,' and many others. I see some of their names every day, and I declare if the sight of 'em don't bring back the old school days.'

Then the old lady gazed meditatively into the fire and old Mr. Squaggs went out on to the back stoop to indulge in a quiet laugh to himself.

—Deininger's Ready Reference Tax Receipt Book ts growing in public favor. Customers from a distance are beginning to call for it. Quite a Surprise.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterby have been married several years. They live very peacefully, as is usual with married folks, but occasionally they have a falling out.

'That was not a nice way to treat me. To-day was my birthday and you did not surprise me with a present. Every year since we have known each other you have given me a present on my birthday, and I counted on your doing it this time.'

'But, my dear, where would there have been any surprise if I had made you a present ? I didn't give you anything on purpose so that you might enjoy a surprise.'—Siftings.

—The Millheim Marble Works are turning out some very fine work. The yard is full to repletion of excellent monuments and headstones of beautiful and chaste design. Mr. A. C. Musser, the proprietor is an expert mechanic and a square man to deal with while his prices can not be undersold anywnere. 3t

'THE way to sleep,' says a scientist, 'is to think of nothing.' But this is a mistake. The way to sleep is to think it is time to get up.

DOWNS' ELIXIR.

N. H. DOWNS'

Vegetable Balsamic

ELIXIR

For the cure of

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir is used its efficacy is at once manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs; then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever, and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.

It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the CAUSE, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions, free.

Price 35 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per bottle.

SOLD EVERYWHERE.
